

CELEBRATING POLAND'S RESTORATION SUNDAY

Premier Paderewski to Introduce American Ideals in Government of Famous Reunited People—Elections Sunday—Polish Day in Many States.

By John F. Smulski.
(Commissioner in the United States for the Polish people.)
By Telegram to The Freeman.
Washington, Jan. 25.—With the first general election under way in Poland tomorrow, and with the day being celebrated in many states and the District of Columbia as "Polish day," the news from the great restored nation—is so thrilling that Americans cannot help but take pride in the fact that its premier, Ignace Paderewski, has pledged that "it shall be a land full of the great spirit of this great country." This great musician, whose success as a statesman has thrilled the world, already has employed American methods. When his first interview at Warsaw failed to bring about the desired coalition with General Spilowski, he united the peasants and workmen and it was through their support that harmonious arrangement was reached, which the world has hailed and by which Paderewski triumphed.

American ideals will "prevail in Poland and one of the greatest stabilizing forces that will stand like a wall between Bolshevism of Russia and western civilization will be that great army of 200,000 men, leavened with the 30,000 boys who left schools, desks, chemical laboratories, steel and textile mills, farms and fields, to carry American ideals into the Polish army because as technical alien enemies they were barred from the armies of Czarism. Because of lack of military supplies which they hoped the Allies would furnish, and which it now seems are forthcoming, they have fought with their feet on the ice and snow to fight the forces which threaten the disorganization of the world.

Among Americans there is a feeling that some of the revived nations in Europe will be a liability upon the credit of the world. Let me say that Poland will not be an orphan child. It will be a nation competent to make good its covenants in a league of nations. It stretches from the Baltic to the Carpathian mountains. With a population of 25,000,000 it will have a population in excess of the combined populations of Norway, Sweden, Denmark, Belgium and Serbia. It will include Prussian, Austrian and Russian Poland, after a lapse of 125 years. It will have its own port at Gdansk (Danzig). Warsaw is the second largest railway terminal in the world. Coal, from old zinc are found within its borders, and its oil wells are among the richest in Europe. Its people are trained not only in the arts and sciences, but in steady industries. Seventy per cent of the land is held in small parcels by the tillers. The only land problem which will be the acquisition of the land which was German expropriation after the war. When it was trying to drive the Poles from the face of the earth, it had a wonderful public school system. Through the gateway of Warsaw traverses traffic into Siberia and the Far East. That is one reason the Germans are seeking it.

Real Poland's level plains furnish a level traffic way from Russia into Germany and western Europe. Thus Poland has served as a bridge between the Russian forces of disorder and western civilization and the battle for the possession of the bridge had been going on for some time. Had Poland weakened, had Paderewski failed, the Bolsheviks would have won; the country would have been overrun and the signing of a peace pact at Versailles, no matter how honestly drawn, would have been a mere gesture, nothing more. Germany would have been the first to prosper.

German warfare is still being waged and has planned to repeat it over and over. Weakened Poland would of necessity have become economically subservient to the Pan-Germans. That, thank God, has been avoided.

German Bolshevik forces directed the bullet of the man who attempted to assassinate Paderewski in Warsaw. It will be well for the American public to be prepared for a series of direful stories of Polish bandits with Berlin state fines, of armed gangs and disturbances, calculated to excite a feeling that this is the only way to peace.

But for the new Poland which will be created under Paderewski, American people need have no fear of their own partnership. It will be a Poland without Russian domination, free to the traditions of the living spirit in the suffering and oppressed as in the old days the people opened their arms to the survivors of the massacre of St. Bartholomew and to the Jewish people, and to the brutality of the Russian and the more evil that none the less the German government, and this the American people have refused, in fact, the sacrifice of Poland and Poland. It was from the lips of President Wilson the

DIPHTHERIA CASES 66; DEATHS TWO

Since the first of the month sixty-six cases of diphtheria have been reported to the health board. There have been two deaths so far caused by the disease. The health board is using every effort to prevent a further spread of diphtheria.

7 DEATHS FROM FLU THIS MONTH

There Were Also Four Deaths From Pneumonia—Over One Hundred Cases of Influenza in Kingston at Present Time.

There have been seven deaths from influenza in Kingston so far this month, according to the records of the board of health, while there have also been four cases of pneumonia which did not develop from the flu. With over one hundred cases of influenza in the city every one should use the utmost precautions to avoid being taken ill. The safest method would be to call a physician when any one feels the flu attacking them.

MRS. P. ELTING ON ADVISORY BOARD

Of State D. A. R. at Rochester Conference—Mrs. Dow Endorsed for Head of National Organization.

Rochester, Jan. 25.—Mrs. Charles S. Whitman, wife of the former governor, at the state conference of the Daughters of the American Revolution here Friday night, was defeated for endorsement for the office of vice president general of the national organization by Mrs. Frank F. Dow, state chairman and regent of Irondequoit Chapter. The vote was 52 to 24, and as soon as it was announced Mrs. Whitman moved to make the endorsement of Mrs. Dow unanimous.

A resolution was adopted asking the Paris peace conference to provide for the punishment of German officers and soldiers found guilty of crimes against women and asking the women of allied countries against whom outrages were perpetrated to give the status of wounded.

The following officers were elected: State regent, Miss Stella F. Broadhead, Jamestown; vice regent, Mrs. Charles M. Nash, Albany; recording secretary, Mrs. John Francis Yawger, New York; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Cora Sheldon Tew, Jamestown; registrar and genealogist, Mrs. Frederick W. Yates, Rochester; historian, Mrs. Francis Roberts, Utica; parliamentarian, Mrs. Cora Wells, New York; auditors, Mrs. Alonzo R. OUR ARMY WAS SECOND LARGEST General March Gives Out Figures to Show That Americans Outnumbered British on Western Front.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Washington, Jan. 25.—America had the second largest army of the Allies on the western front at the time the armistice was signed, General March, chief of staff, announced today in his weekly interview with representatives of the press. The Allied armies on the western front at this time ranked as follows in proportionate strength: First—France, total strength of 2,267,000 men. Second—the United States, total strength of 1,950,100 men. Third—Great Britain, total strength of 1,718,900 men. Next ranked Belgium and Italy with a total combined strength of approximately 200,000 men, the general said.

ADMINISTRATION JUBILANT. As Big Food Bill Goes to Conference After Senate Passage.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Washington, Jan. 25.—With President Wilson's $100,000,000 food bill passed by the senate, 55 to 18, and ready to be sent to conference, administration leaders were jubilant today over the big vote. Despite the fact that Senator Borah declared that "95 per cent of the senators who supported the measure would apologize for their votes later," friends of the president asserted that passage of the measure in the senate had strengthened his hands in the peace conference.

"It is evident," said one senator who voted for the bill, "that the senate is behind the president in anything that will hurry peace."

SIMPLICITY AT SECOND PEACE CONFERENCE SESSION

League of Nations, Responsibility For War and Territorial Questions Up Today—Germany Not to Regain Colonies.

ONE YOUNG GUN TOTER WAS SHOT

Member of a Gang of Uptown Youths Had Narrow Escape From Death in Police Court to Explain Where They Bought Ammunition.

Complaints made to the police department recently of young boys ranging in age from 10 to 14 years of age, seen with revolvers in their possession led to an investigation being made. The other day Sergeant Hanley visited School No. 4, and found one youth carrying a fully loaded seven-shot 22 calibre revolver in his hip pocket. Friday afternoon he again visited the school and rounded up another gun toter. This one did not have the revolver with him, but had hid it under a bill board near his home.

The investigation led to a number of the boys being notified to attend police court today with their parents and have an interview with Judge Schirlick. As no arrests were made, the boy simply being notified to appear, the names were not made public.

One of the boys carries the scar of a bullet in his forehead. From what could be learned he and one or two other young gun toters were together Christmas Day and one of the young fools was toying with the revolver when it exploded, the bullet taking an upward course and inflicting a bad scalp wound on the other boy.

All together two seven-shot revolvers were recovered from the crowd and it developed that the two guns had been passed along from one to another.

All of the boys reside uptown and attend School No. 6 and St. Joseph's School. The police were interested to learn who violated the law in selling them ammunition. Further developments are expected.

1. The following is quoted from a notice issued by the secretary of the treasury: "My attention has been directed to the numerous offers made by unscrupulous persons through advertisements and in other ways to buy War Savings Certificate Stamps and as a result of such offers, I am informed that owners of such securities have suffered material losses which could have been avoided by redemption of the War Savings Certificate Stamps at post offices, as provided by law."

"In order that the interests of owners of War Savings Certificate Stamps may be safeguarded, I hereby notify all persons to refrain from offers to buy War Savings Stamps or accept the same in trade."

2. In pursuance of the foregoing postmasters are directed not to pay war savings certificates on which the names of owners have not been entered, or have been erased or changed, unless under the regulations they are not transferable, and are payable only to the original owners, except in case of death or disability.

3. Postmasters are further instructed not to pay any war savings certificates presented by persons or firms known to be buying, or publicly offering to buy, war savings stamps or certificates from the owners, unless the certificates were originally issued to the persons or firms presenting them for payment.

4. When consulted by owners of war savings stamps in regard to offers to purchase such stamps at less than current value, postmasters should invite their attention to the fact that war savings certificates may be cashed at money order office after ten days without notice, and that this is a privilege accorded by law. At the same time it should be pointed out that the need of the government for the proceeds of the war savings stamps issue is great, and the holders should be urged to retain their stamps until maturity as a patriotic act unless their necessities are urgent.

The Stroller Hears There Is No Use Getting Frightened Over the Flu But It Don't Pay to Take Any Chances With It.

"Well I see where there are over one hundred cases of flu in Kingston at the present time," remarked the customer as he entered the barber shop.

"Still there is no use getting frightened over it," replied the barber.

"That may be so," retorted the customer, "but there is no use taking any chances with it."

"That's right too," agreed the barber, "but the trouble seems to be that folks when they feel it coming on think they can fight it off and instead of going to bed they stick at work until they have to give up."

"You said something," replied the customer.

"It puts me in mind of a little gem one of the fellows who was just in scribbled on the paper there," said the barber.

"What did it say?" asked the customer.

The barber recited gravely:

"Weather, Pneu Caught flu Grave neu."

"Gosh, that last line about a new grave gives me the shivers," interrupted the customer.

"Well then you want to be mighty careful," replied the barber, "and when you feel out of sorts just call a doctor. It might cost something but it don't pay to take chances."

"You don't seem to be worrying any," retorted the customer.

"What's the use," replied the barber, "if I should worry over every thing that happens how long could I keep in business?"

"I find that the only way to get the best out of life is to keep smiling and looking for the bright side to my troubles. Folks don't want to hear about your troubles, they have enough of their own."

DAILY FOOD FOR THE FAMILY.

Those who have tasted the old-fashioned sweet pudding will enjoy this one, for it is without eggs.

Baked Indian Pudding.—Scald one quart of milk in a double boiler. Mix half a cupful of Indian meal with a teaspoonful of salt and one cupful of cold milk, and stir into the hot milk; continue to stir until the mixture thickens; cover and let cook ten minutes; add one cupful of molasses, half a cupful of finely chopped suet, half a teaspoonful of ginger, one teaspoonful of cinnamon, one cupful of cold milk; mix and bake in a baking dish. Let bake in a slow oven half an hour; add two cupfuls of milk, stirring it well, after half an hour a third time stir in two cupfuls of milk, then let bake undisturbed three hours longer. Serve hot with a hard sauce. Raisins may be added which will improve the flavor.

Peanut Butter Cookies.—Take three-fourths of a cupful of peanut butter, one-half cupful of sugar, one egg, one-half cupful of pastry flour and one-half cupful of barley flour; one-half teaspoonful of salt, two tablespoonfuls of milk and two teaspoonfuls of baking powder sifted with the flour. Roll and bake as usual.

Japanese Suet Dressing for Sundaes.—Take two ounces each of dates, figs, raisins, peaches and almonds, one-fourth of a cupful of maple syrup, and one cupful of marshmallow paste. Chop each article separately, very fine; blend the almonds before chopping, then mix all the ingredients together and let stand overnight to ripen.

Cream of Asparagus Soup.—Take one-half cupful of cooked asparagus, one-half cupful of the liquor from the can of vegetable if freshly cooked, one and one-half cupfuls of milk heated and thickened with two level tablespoonfuls of rice flour. Salt to taste and add a small piece of butter when ready to serve.

CHANDLER SIX

Leads All Sixes Now As Always

CHANDLER is back now to the prices at which thousands bought this great car because it offered such exceptional value.

At $1795 Chandler leads all other high-grade sixes, all other cars of every type, just as distinctly as it has always led them.

A really fine car closely priced. That is Chandler policy. And that policy holds good for 1919 just as it has held good for five years past.

Fifty thousand owners know what a good car the Chandler is. They know, better than we can tell, the marvels of its motor—its smooth-flowing, quiet power; its instant flexibility; its endurance. They know the sturdy strength of the whole Chandler chassis.

The handsome Chandler Coupe, now only $2395

The whole motor car market offers no more beautiful coupe than this four-passenger convertible Chandler, and no other on a really fine chassis at such a moderate price.

Most graceful in the lines of its design, handsomely finished, richly cushioned and upholstered, the Chandler Coupe appeals keenly to persons of discriminating tastes. Enclosed, it offers snug protection against the cold or rain or snow. On pleasant days, with the windows lowered away, it is open to the sunshine and soft air.

For those wishing larger seating capacity the Chandler seven-passenger four door Sedan provides the same quality as the coupe.

SHRINERS BALL TICKETS GO FAST

The members of the Kingston Shriners Association are busy these days trying to supply the great demand for tickets already requested for their annual ball to be given in the armory on the evening of Tuesday, February 18. Statistics show that an extra large number of out of town guests will attend this year and of course the Kingston patronage is assured by the fast distribution of tickets during the past week among the local society folk. One of the features of this dance provides for the best to be obtained in dance music when Collins arrives in town with his 15-piece orchestra from Albany. Did you have the opportunity of hearing the colored jazz band at the Shriners' ball last year? No. All the more reason for not being left this year by neckticking to purchase your tickets from some member of the association at the earliest possible date. The armory floor will be at its best on this evening and all details will be in proper fitting with the affair. Chris Loughran sends word from Cuba that on February 18, the greatest dance ever planned by the Shriners' association will crown the armory floor and Chris, known from experience just what the local association can do in the line of upholding their enviable reputation with the public of Kingston. With that colored jazz band and Collins' orchestra rendering dance and concert music and a few finishing touches by the promoters from the Shriners it is no doubt that President Sam Brown will have accomplished his desire of eclipsing all dances previously directed by ex-presidents.

An Improvement.

A young guardsman called the other day on a certain character, who insisted on showing him over his magnificent private house, informing him not only where he purchased every article in it but the price he paid for it. When he had finished he asked his visitor if he could suggest any improvement in the arrangement of the house. "Well," was the reply, "if you were to mark all the goods in plain figures it would save you a good deal of trouble."

EVANGELISTIC SERVICES.

To Be Held at Wurts Street Baptist Church.

Evangelist W. A. Pugsley and wife of New York city, will conduct a series of special meetings at the Wurts Street Baptist Church, beginning Sunday, January 26th. Services will be held during the week each evening, except Monday, in the chapel. These meetings are being held for the purpose of quickening spiritual life, building up Christian character and acquainting those who attend with the way of life as taught by Christ in the New Testament. In these times of unrest and reconstruction this church desires to contribute its quota of real spiritual help to this community and one of the ways it seeks to bring help is by means of these uplifting evangelistic meetings. The work of Mr. and Mrs. Pugsley has been greatly blessed in other places where they have labored and Dr. Fuller and his people are hoping and praying it may be so here in Kingston and to this end they solicit the prayers of all Christians, assuring every one who attends the meetings a cordial welcome.

GOVERNMENT WORKERS.

Still Needed In Many Departments to Finish War Work.

The Ordnance Department of the army is in urgent need of an unlimited number of senior cost accountants, junior cost accountants, and clerks qualified in accounting for service in establishments of the Ordnance Department throughout the country. Some are also needed in Departmental Headquarters at Washington, D. C.

The income tax unit of the Bureau of Internal Revenue, Treasury Department, is in need of a number of traveling auditors and resident auditors for service in the Departmental Headquarters at Washington and in the field.

The commission states that there is a vast amount of work directly connected with the war yet to be done.

Christmas Gifts.

The custom of giving Christmas gifts is not traceable to its beginning. The Encyclopedia Britannica says that "in Britain the 25th of December was a festival long before the conversion to Christianity, for Bede (de temp. reg. ch. 18) relates that 'the ancient peoples of Angli began the year on the 25th of December.'" The custom also prevailed in the Germanic countries.

LOCUST BROOD DUE THIS YEAR

The year 1918 is likely to be one of the worst "locust years" on record. But entomologists of the United States department of agriculture see nothing alarming in the prospect. The periodical cicada, the real name of the insect commonly called "locust," will appear this year in the following states: Alabama, Georgia, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kentucky, Maryland, Massachusetts, Michigan, New Jersey, New York, North Carolina, Ohio, Pennsylvania, South Carolina, Tennessee, Vermont, Virginia, West Virginia and Wisconsin.

The injury done by the periodical cicada consists almost wholly in chewing grooves in the branches of trees for depositing eggs. This injury always appears to be greater than it actually is. Popular alarm is usually out of proportion to general damage.

Young fruit trees are sometimes killed by the cicada. The precautionary measures are: Defer putting out young fruit trees till next year, postpone budding operations; do not pruning this winter or spring.

When the insects begin coming out, hand pick them from young fruit trees or spray them with pyrethrum powder, kerosene emulsions or a solution of carbolic acid or acetic acid.

Later, when the insects are ready to begin laying, spray young fruit trees with whitewash.

Injury is Wholly Overestimated.

Upon every appearance of large broods of the cicada, fear is aroused that trees will be destroyed, particularly young trees of the fruiting and ornamental species. There would seem to be some ground for such a fear. The number of the insects is so tremendous that one can hardly understand how they can deposit their eggs in the young and tender branches of the trees without killing them. Yet the fact remains that there have been outbreaks of cicadas in some sections of the United States in most of the years since this country was discovered and that no very grave damage ever yet has been done. Very young fruit trees sometimes are killed or seriously injured, but little or no permanent injury is done to forest trees or mature trees of any kind and measures of protection can be employed that will save the young and tender stock from serious injury.

Inasmuch as the coming 1919 brood of locusts may be one of the largest on record, it is particularly important to allow excessive fear of destruction to timber as well as to have people on guard, so that the few preventive measures possible may be applied. The belief that the 1919 brood will be exceptionally large is based on the fact that the 17-year brood coming out this year is Brood 10, perhaps the largest of the 17 year broods, and that Brood 18 of the 13-year family comes out at the same time. The year 1868 was the greatest locust year in history.

Cicadas Will Appear in May.

Locusts does not appear to materially affect the time of emergence from the ground; the cicada in the Lake States coming out within a week or two of the same time as in the Gulf and South Atlantic States. This date ranges from the last week in May to the first in June, and the shrieking hosts may be looked for throughout the whole territory indicated at about that time. Late in May or early in June the under sides of leaves on practically all trees in dense brood areas will be studded with the cast skins and every wooded place will be resounding with the shrill drums.

A month later the deposition of eggs in branches will have become general. Of forest trees, the oak and hickory appear to be preferred, though the cicada deposits eggs in all kinds of trees, with a particular tendency, however, to avoid pines and cedars and such other species as exude gummy substances. Of orchard trees, the apple is the favorite, with peach and pear trees second, and all others, even grape vines, come in for some share of attention. In the case of large trees, only slight and temporary injury is done but with young orchards and nursery stock the result may be fatal unless some protective measures are adopted.

Fear aroused by the presence of this insect in great numbers is out of proportion to the real damage likely to be done. People in infested sections should not become unduly alarmed but should apply such methods of control as are possible. In young orchards and nurseries, the safe method is the hand collection of the insects at the time of emergence or as soon afterwards as possible. Every cicada tries to climb some plant or tree immediately after coming out of the ground and great numbers of them can be shaken off and collected in bags or umbrellas. This practice may be continued for an indefinite time and the work should be done very early in the morning or late in the evening when the insects are somewhat torpid and sluggish. If undertaken at the first appearance and repeated each day, control will be facilitated by the fact that most of the insects will be on the young trees or short branches, or on the lower branches of large trees and within comparatively easy reach.

LOSING DELIGHT IN BEAUTY

Writer Remains "Degradation of the Arts" Which He Asserts Is Going on Today.

All the arts but one, says Layton Crippon in his book, "Clay and Fire," show degradation today, in many cases degradation so great that they have virtually ceased to exist. We have not only forgotten how to make beautiful things, but we have even acquired an instinctive dislike of beautiful things. They seem to have become offensive to us.

"There was recently one curious little instance to which I am tempted to refer, showing as it did, that in our present state of degradation beauty is not only ignored, but has actually become offensive, causing instinctive dislike. The St. Gaudens ten and five-dollar gold pieces were undoubtedly the noblest coins produced in any country in 200 years. Within a couple of months the American public had howled them out of circulation. The explanation was afterward made that the coins were disliked because the relief was inconveniently high, but the original outcry was against the design and only the design of these exquisite examples of die cutting. But America has no monopoly of this instinctive hatred of beauty. It was exemplified in the vandalism that was common all over Europe, the destruction of ancient and glorious buildings, usually without valid excuse."

War-Time Speed

By CATHERINE PARSONS

(Copyright, 1918, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

Gardner Lane was busy with the delightful task of painting Amy Roland's portrait. If you had seen Amy you would have really envied him, for she was truly lovely.

On this particular day Amy left the studio somewhat later than usual for the picture was just at an interesting stage and Gardner could not bear to stop work till the last bit of daylight had vanished. Mrs. Roland, who always came with her daughter, had left early to keep an appointment and Amy had promised to meet her at five.

Gardner had kept her till the last possible moment and she was hurrying toward the front door, when she ran directly into a young man who was coming in the opposite direction.

"I beg pardon," exclaimed Amy, as she bounced back in surprise. "Why, Billy Lane," she added, as she recognized him. "Where in the world did you come from? I haven't laid eyes on you for over two years."

"Just got here, Amy. I've been out in Colorado working hard. But even an obscure farmer has a right to a vacation now and then, so I'm taking two weeks this time. Maybe it isn't good to see you again—you haven't changed much except to grow up more. I suppose you'd forgotten all about me, though."

Amy blushed slightly, but it was too dark to see.

"I hadn't, really; but of course two years is a long time. In another one I might forget whether your hair was red or brown. It's hard to remember much when you're kept pretty busy."

Billy laughed ruefully. Amy held out her hand with a frank and engaging smile. In another moment she was gone.

"For heaven's sake," cried Gardner, spying his brother from the floor above. "When did you get here? Well, maybe it isn't good to see you again. Is this a pleasure trip?"

"Not exactly. The truth of the matter is I'm enlisting in about two weeks and I wanted to see the old town before I went over."

"Great Scott, you don't say so! I would myself but I'm beyond the draft age and I hate to leave my work—I'm really needed here. Could they spare you all right?"

"Well, you see, I'm my own boss, so I just sold out and came along. I couldn't stay out of it any longer and I'd nothing to hold me back, either."

"I'm single, too, but I may not be long—that's one reason why I don't want to enlist."

"Who is it—Louise?"
Gardner laughed. "I should say not! I've had a dozen since Louise. It's Amy this time. I haven't told her yet, but I'm going to marry her."

Two days later Amy went for another sitting for her portrait and again she found Billy in the hall on her way home.

"Hello, Mr. Hermit," she scoffed. "You're not wasting time on your old friends this trip, are you?"

"Most of them seem to be pretty busy themselves."

"Well, I'm not for one, and to prove it I'll invite you to go for a walk with me now."

"Isn't it lovely out today?" cried Amy enthusiastically.
"Yes, but you'd never call this beautiful if you could see it out where I live. Mountains and hills and valleys everywhere you look. And the sunsets—you'd love those sunsets, Amy. They just make the whole world a blaze of glory and put peace into your soul. I can't explain how it is out there—it's too big for that. But I can tell you it impresses me. Maybe I'm daffy on the subject, but it's simply life out there to me. I feel like our poet friend who said: 'I want to go back, and I will.' You'd love it out there, Amy."

"Oh, I would love it!" she agreed, and almost surprised herself by her own fervor.

"Will you visit me some day then—just you and your husband?"

"We'll be delighted—provided I have one by that time."

"In the meantime will you consider an invitation to dine with me this evening?"

"I'm sorry, Billy, but I'm going to dinner at the Sontons' with Gardner—they asked me ages ago. But I've had a lovely walk with you."

"So have I, too. Good night."

"What can I do for you?"
"Don't you ever want to walk home with me again? I have three more sittings."

"Of course I want to. But a man doesn't do all the things he wants to—worse luck! I'll see you before long, though. Good-by."

"I think you're the limit, and you make me cross," flared Amy, and refused to notice his proffered hand.

Whereupon Billy pondered long on the vagaries of women and kept out of Amy's way for the next two days. But on the day that she came for her last sitting she found him standing before her picture in the studio with a strange look on his face.

"Don't look so sad, Billy—I'm not dead yet."

"Hello, Amy; I didn't expect you today. Gardner went to New York, but he sent you a message at the last minute—you must have left before the messenger arrived at your home."

"I did. You don't seem overjoyed to see me yourself—don't let me keep you. What have I done for you, Billy, that you should be so horrid to me? Don't you dare say you're not—you are!"

"I'm sorry, Amy—I told you I wasn't cut out for society in the first place, and I always make a mess of things."

Gardner came back from New York the next morning and in the afternoon he took Amy to tea at the most fashionable hotel in town. Gardner liked to be seen at smart places—especially in company with a good-looking girl.

"Billy's sailing tomorrow," he said, casually, in the course of conversation.

"Where to?" asked Amy, with apparent indifference.

"France. He's going in aviation over there. That's really why he came east, you know. I've got to go down town and fix up some things for him as soon as we leave here—you won't mind if I send you home in the car alone, will you?"

"Of course not, Gardner." Amy was trying hard not to choke on the delicious piece of French pastry which she was doing her best to swallow. Then she received another shock. Gardner leaned over the table and began to speak in a lowered voice.

"Amy—will you marry me?"

"Is this a surprise party?" gasped Amy.

"I shouldn't think you would be surprised—I made up my mind some time ago."

"But I didn't know that, and as much as I've seen of you lately, it never entered my head that you loved me. I like you, but I don't love you any more than you honestly love me. And I want to be friends—you're a better friend than you would be a husband—don't you truly think, Gardner?"

Gardner smiled in spite of himself. "Where did you learn so much about being in love, little Amy?"

"I learned the little I know from a very poor teacher who didn't even want me for a pupil. I'm sorry, Gardner, but I do care for someone else. He doesn't even know I exist—hardly. Forgive me, but it's the truth. And you'll still be my friend, won't you?"

"You can be perfectly sure about that," returned the rejected suitor promptly.

Amy waved her hand to him and then turned and walked rapidly in the opposite direction from her own house. Her head was dizzy and her feet seemed to travel too slowly. She dragged herself wearily up the steps of a familiar house and rang the bell.

"Is Mr. William Lane in?" she asked the man who answered her ring.

"In the library, miss."

"Don't announce me, then—I'll go right in."

Billy was sitting with his back to the door writing. Amy walked across the room before he saw her. Then he dropped his pen and sprang to his feet in amazement.

"Amy!" he cried. "Has something happened? You want Gardner?"

"No, I don't want Gardner—I've just refused to marry him. I just want to know why you are going away without saying good-by to me. It's unbelievable."

"Do you mean to tell me you're not going to marry Gardner? Why not?"

"It's really none of your business, but I'll tell you. For the simple reason that I don't happen to care for him—not in the marrying way of caring, I mean."

"What way is that?"

"I didn't come here to talk to you about marriage, Mr. William Lane. I only came to tell you how horrid I think you are—I think I almost hate you."

Billy covered the distance between them in less time than it takes to mention it. Then he caught Amy in his arms and held her till she had ceased to struggle.

"And I love you, love you, love you," he told her for about fifty times in as many different ways. "Look me in the eyes and tell me you hate me."

But Amy was too comfortable to look up, so she didn't even answer him.

After a little while Billy looked at his watch and found it was a quarter to eight.

"Will you go to dinner with me this time, Amy darling?" he asked her.

"It looks as if I'd have to. You don't know how much I wanted to go with you that day, Billy. Let's get out of the house before Gardner comes. I think it would be better to break it to him after you've been gone a few days, even though he didn't really love me at all. Oh, I wish you didn't have to go, Billy—I can't bear to think of it."

"Would you marry me tomorrow if I could get a special license?"

"Yes, any time at all."

"Then we'll go and see about it—will you come with me?"

"Anywhere. You won't be able to lose me now. And Billy, my husband and I will be glad to come and visit you on your wild and woolly farm as soon as you come back to us."

"Then, I'll have something worth fighting for now—that's what helps a man to do his duty even if it is hard work, too. I'm the luckiest person in the world today, Amy dearest."

"With the exception of one other," corrected Amy, and was immediately deprived of the power of speech again.

One Thing at a Time.

General Foch, under whose splendid strategy our army in France is proud to serve, is a "one thing at a time" man. When he gives an order it is an order to do one thing and one thing only—never to even think of two things. He insists that this rule prevail in the army.

Artificial Rubber.

Artificial rubber has been made in an experimental way for many years, but it is now reported that it has become a practical success, and that the great dye and color works at Elberfeld, Germany, are erecting a large factory for the production of synthetic rubber on a large scale, principally intended to supply Germany with this product in future years, when great difficulties are anticipated in obtaining natural rubber, like other raw materials, from the tropics.

SHOE CONSERVATION

W. H. Kelley, a lumber salesman, of Omaha, found Neolin Soles so tough and durable that one pair of soles served on a second pair of uppers after the first pair of uppers had worn out in ten months of hard walking.

And he says, "Those same soles will stand another ten months of constant daily wear."

This is unusual service even for Neolin Soles but Mr. Kelley's experience should indicate to you a method of cutting down those rising shoe bills you have to meet. Simply make sure the new shoes you buy are Neolin-soled and have worn shoes repaired with these soles which are scientifically made to be comfortable, waterproof and exceedingly long-wearing. They are made by The Goodyear Tire & Rubber Company, Akron, Ohio, who also make Wingfoot Heels, guaranteed to outwear any other heels.

Work While at Work.

It's a good thing not to take your hobbies to the office. It's also a good thing to dispense with easy chairs and other luxuries in your place of business. Take the rest cure at home. The office is a place of toil. It should be comfortable, but its appointments should be suggestive of work and efficiency rather than leisure. Instead of making a man feel like taking a nap the office environment should be an urge to his best efforts.

A Man and the World.

The world owes you nothing, unless by your own achievements you have made it your debtor. The man who imagines that the world owes him a living has taken the first step toward knavery; the second step is taken when he tries to collect the debt which is not due him. The greater his success in this, the greater thief he is, if he takes out of the world more than he has put into it.—Lyman Abbott.

Treadmill for Chickens.

To make chickens take exercise necessary for growth, an inventor has patented a feed box in front of which is a revolving platform over which they must scramble to get anything to eat.

RAISED OWN CORN

How American Boys in France Got Delicacy.

Turned From the Trenches to Truck Farming and Were as Successful on the Field as at the Front.

You should have seen the soldiers raising garden truck for Christmas. The climate of France was strange to them, as was the soil, and some of the vegetables that please the French palate, according to Sterling Hellig in an exchange.

But the American buddies took up winter trucking with a will.

Nobody ever raised green corn down there in winter. "Nor in summer, very much, either," answered the buddies. A few natives used to raise it to sell to Americans of Paris, but they had never tried to eat it, though they raised much yellow corn for meal and fodder. Last summer the doughboys in certain hospital truck farm districts resolved to have the real thing. At Bordeaux, where they were particularly successful, roasting ears were furnished to the private car of Secretary Baker when he made his trip to France. And it was from the secretary of war's recommendations, they say, that the great American truck farm movement in France quit Red Cross swaddling clothes and became generalized from fighting front to resting rear.

In the south of France winter is a good deal like summer, and they raise almost anything. Heroes of St. Mihiel were hotting that they would have green corn for Christmas—and the French natives bet against them.

Most of the gardeners were convalescents, wounded at St. Mihiel, and hungry for the fresh green things they expected to eat presently. Only those who have been deprived of green stuff so long that they shy at the sight of a tin can are able to appreciate the value of these real war gardens. For the fighting over, setting goes on, and when rutabagas that father used to feed to the cows cost 40 cents a pound, the food problem is clearly stated to every man in the army.

The surgeons say the convalescent heroes of Chateau-Thierry and St. Mihiel need the garden work as much as they need the garden truck. Get the man out, even for half a day, in the light work of truck farming, and you get him out of himself—and away from sitting around hospitals, listening to wounds being dressed and troubles talked over. High British and Australian neurosis authorities agree, absolutely, that working the soil will work more cures than any other treatment.

In the army farming in France many see a forerunner of what will happen when Uncle Sam gives little government farms to his veterans on their return.

"We find that the American truck farmer," says a worker, "after he has talked a little with French truckers and has the lay of the land, turns out better than the Frenchman—by up-to-date methods. Side by side, the little American truck farms in France are superior to truck farms under French gardeners in the suburbs of French cities. It is absolutely demonstrated."

Animals Fear Airships.

All animals are terrified by airships. Partridge, quail and other game birds crouch and hide, while domestic fowl utter loud warning notes the instant they perceive the monstrous bird of prey.

The Swedish aeronaut, Van Hoeffen, while sailing at a moderate elevation, observed that elk, foxes, hares and other wild animals fled at his approach, and that the dogs ran, howling, into the houses.

While the Zeppelin III was going from Dinsldorf to Esen the aeromane on board noted that horses and cattle galloped frantically over the fields on catching sight of the airship.

Preserving French Treasures.

Life is no exception to the rule that every French center of population has its museum and every such museum has in it something of unique interest. The Palais des Beaux Arts there contained before the war the well-known "Tete de Cere," or rather, head of a corn, in terra cotta and wax, which tradition had ascribed to many artists out without any assurance as to the attributions. The wax head was removed from the museum to a place of safety before the Teutonic invaders entered the city early in the war.

Considerable Kicking.

My brother, who was a private at Camp Hancock, was told to harness a team of mules and go several miles out of camp for some hay for the horses. He had never had any experience in doing farm work, but he snatched and went about the task. We knew not how he succeeded, excepting in his next letter he informed us that he had the mules had kicked a perfectly good government harness into leather ribbons.—Exchange.

Defeat.

What is defeat? Nothing but cold cutlets: the first step to success, better.—Wendell Phillips.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
New York, Jan. 25.—When the stock market opened today there was a wild scramble to buy stocks, practically everything on the list going in an upward movement with advances ranging from 1 to over 3 points over yesterday's final. Most interest was attached to Steel Common, the first sales being recorded as 12,000 shares from 92 to 94 against 92½ yesterday, and the stock was maintained above 92 all through the first fifteen minutes. Other stocks, however, did not retain all the initial gains. Baldwin moved up 2½ to 72, and then dropped to 71, with a rally to 71½. Mexican Petroleum advanced 3¼ to 174½, and then reacted to 173. Southern Pacific was the strongest of the railroads, opening up 1½ at 100½ with a quick reaction to 99½. Liberty fourth 4½'s were strong at 94 68.

The market closed weak; government bonds unchanged; railway and other bonds heavy.

Fruits Stand First.

Fruits have the honor of being most widely diffused geographically, grown with the handiest care, and of being first used by man as food. They still enter largely into the regimen of the cultivated nations, and are the fairest of civilized. The use of them is of such universal importance that we can not subsist in any plenty or elegance without them. And everywhere beside the cultivated man grows the orchard, to intimate his refinement in those excellences most befitting his race.—A. Brimston Abbott.

Wasted Patience.

He was a great Scottish lad, and one of his duties was to answer the telephone. When first called on to do so, in reply to the usual query: "Are you there?" he nodded assent. Again the question came and again he nodded, and each time the boy gave the answering nod. When the question came for the fifth time, however, the boy, losing his temper, roared through the transmitter: "Man, are ye blind? I've been noddin' an' heid off for the last half o'er!"—Boston Transcript.

Christmas Box Nuisance.

The Christmas box was at one time greatly in evidence—so much in evidence that it finally became an intolerable nuisance, and the people rose up in rebellion against it. At Christmas time herds of boys and journey-men and apprentices crowded the shops and ran about the streets in certain parts of England bearing boxes for the small boxes they carried. One can readily imagine how much of a nuisance the boys might make himself under such circumstances.

World's Greatest Force.

It's mother's love in the apple dumplings that gives them an irresistible flavor.—Leland Blade.

HOW WAR COOKS MADE THEMSELVES BELOVED BY THE SOLDIERS—THE PROBLEM OF MAKING BREAKS WITHOUT STOVE WAS SOLVED, IT IS SAID, BY THE WAR COOKS. THEY MADE PARADE OUT OF ARMY BISCUITS, COQUETTES FROM BULLY BEEF, RICH RISOLLES, AMAZING SAVORIES FROM THIS OF SARDINES AND BLOATER PASTE.

"They seemed always cheerful," writes Lieut. J. B. Morton. "I do not remember ever to have met a surly cook. I have a picture in my mind of cooks that stood near Harley street on the La Bassee sector, and of cooks that always had a cheery word at the worst of times. Day after day they cooked the meals under shell fire; and once, when a cook was hit, they sent up a report that there had been an accident to the tea, and that it would be brought up later. That is all they said about it; and the tea was brought up later. I saw them again in a ghastly wood in Picardy. They were still cheerful, and still at the same work.

"They do not get many medals, and the thrill of battle is rare for them, but they are proud of the appreciation of the men. As I write they are moving forward with the army of occupation, in the highest spirits, trying to keep those quiet old cooks up to the speed necessary to follow an advancing army."

CYCLIST UNITS WON PRAISE

How the "Petrol Cavalry" Did Its Part in the Crushing of the Detested Hun.

During the recent actions in France the military cyclist units have won well-earned praise. London Tit-Bits says:

When it is remembered that well-trained military cyclists can cover 60 miles a day on average roads and come into action fit at the end of the ride something of their advantage over cavalry can be realized. Cycles, unlike horses, do not tire rapidly, and, furthermore, require neither food nor drink.

In a forward action, when whole armies are falling back into new positions, it is difficult to send up supplies to horses, and even the transport of infantry in ambulances causes congestion of the traffic. Cyclists, on the other hand, can literally "get through anywhere."

The men are all skilled riders, and practiced shots, and, above all, well trained in map reading and finding their own way. Carrying the normal equipment of cartridges on their person and a further supply on each machine, they come into action quickly and bring their full fire power to bear. It is now 30 years since military cyclists were officially recognized among the official forces of the crown, but it was never thought that they would play such a valuable part as the "Petrol Cavalry" has done in this great struggle.

Why Windows Should Be Open.

Suburban mentions the great hostility of the public to the open-window treatment. Apparently it is necessary to compromise with the patient's relatives on this score. There is, of course, no objection to airing the room while it is empty. The windows should be closed when the patient returns, to allow him to undress, and the bed should be as far as possible from the open window, with its foot turned toward the latter. The window should be wide open after the patient is abed. However, it is advisable to establish tolerance by raising the window but a short distance the first night and increasing it gradually. There are various devices to use in cold weather to keep the wind from blowing on the patient, chief of which is a screen to be placed at the foot of the bed.—Journal de Medicine et de Chirurgie Pratiques.

How Aphids Will Be Fought.

War has been declared on the aphids that annually destroyed thousands of dollars worth of crops in eastern Washington and Oregon. An army of ladybugs is being recruited by the United States bureau of entomology with the assistance of game wardens throughout the two northwestern states.

The ladybug is the natural enemy of the aphid. When liberated in a colony of aphids the ladybug's actions are anything but ladylike. One ladybug is said to be more than a match for 100 aphid-bolled aphids. The army of ladybugs is now in winter quarters in the mountains at an altitude of about 3,000 feet. The game wardens will be required to round them up and have them ready for the spring drive.

As the Gang Saw Them.

Three little boys were calling each other by the names of "Red," "Squinch" and "Bones." When asked why they did so, Squinch spoke for them. "It's our names that matches our looks best to the gang."

ONE OF WAR'S GREAT DEEDS

Crossing of St. Quentin Canal by British Troops Conceded to Be Remarkable Exploit.

Probably one of the most remarkable exploits of the war was the crossing of the St. Quentin canal by a brigade of South Stafford and North Stafford (British) troops in the course of the advance on Cambrai. The canal is a landmark in the country for miles around because of its dimensions, and just where the crossing was effected the waterway runs for some distance between very steep and high banks covered in some parts by dense low brushwood. That the crossing was made by such a large number of men and so expeditiously is a remarkable tribute to the determination of the men and to the forethought of their commanders. It is related that their commanding officer had sent down to a channel port and had had sent up to the line for the occasion all the life-belts of one of the well-known cross-channel steamers. It was this measure of precaution which was the means of enabling many men to cross before foot-bridges could be constructed and which was the main contributing factor in the success of the operation.

Why Lemon Is Valuable.

If the testimony of the Sicilian cyprus chamber is given due consideration in determining the status of a lemon, it deserves an important place in the list of first aids. According to the authority mentioned the lemon aids are chiefly medicinal and hygienic. Its juice is of value in treating diphtheria and gout. For ordinary colds it is a great specific. It will cure slight wounds and chilblains. The juice of several lemons taken every day will help to cure rheumatism and prove an antidote for diabetes; small slices applied to corns will ease the pain.

Edible Alarm Clock.

It was late in the afternoon when the Scotch minister arrived at the farmhouse. The housewife suggested that perhaps he would like a cup of tea before he began the "exercises." "Na, na," said he, "I aye tak my tea better when my work is done. You can put the nan on and leave the door ajar, an' I'll draw to a close in the prayer when I hear the haan bizzin'."

Competitive Accomplishment.

"My daughter is taking fencing lessons, and you should see how she can faint." "That's nothing. You ought to see how mine can throw a fit."

Can an Old Battery be Repaired?

That depends:
—on how old it is
—on how well you've taken care of it
—on how soon you let the Willard expert locate the trouble and correct the fault.

Nobody can repair a battery until he finds the trouble, and nobody can correct a big fault as easily as he can a little one.

If you suspect any little battery troubles you'd better drive around and let us find them. Ask for the booklet "A Mark with a Meaning for You."

TRIANGLES WIN.

At Basketball From Saugerties Royal Team.

The Triangles quintet of this city, defeated the Royals of Saugerties, in a very interesting game of basketball at the Orpheum court at Saugerties last night, score 21 to 22. A very large enthusiastic crowd witnessed the game which was full of thrills from start to finish.

Chet Dolson and Harold Johnson played their usual sensational game while all the other boys did their part to make the game successful. Dolson starred for the home team while Styles starred for Saugerties. The line up and individual scores:

Saugerties—Styles (10); Peters (4); forwards; Wood (4); Murray (4); center; Robb (3); Keeley (4); guards.

Triangles—Johnson (8); Dolson (12); forwards; Wood (4); Murray (4); center; Robb (3); Keeley (4); guards.

Before leaving Manager Gentner and Captain Robb looked another game with the Royals, which will be played on the same court at Saugerties in a few weeks time.

Handy Plant in Desert.

In the desert of Sonora, Mexico, there is a plant, the guarquil, which husbands its water supply. The guarquil is a relative of the squash and pumpkin, and inhabits a locality in which practically all the rain falls within a period of six weeks. The base of the stem is swollen to form a hard, woody structure, which in time attains the size of a large squash. It is really nothing more than a vegetable reservoir designed to hoard up the scanty moisture and dole out the precious fluid in time of need.

WELFARE OF BOYS OF THE CHURCHES

Ernest Thompson Seton Among Speakers at Coming Syracuse Conference—Kingstonians Among 2,000 Delegates.

How valuable are the boys of the churches? This is a question facing the churches of New York state and the men attending the state conference of men leaders of boys' work at Syracuse January 31 to February 2 are going to consider this great question.

The conference is not a conference of boys but of men representing the Christian forces of the Empire State. The welfare of the boy is the paramount objective and this conference will mean a long forward step in boys' work. Only by the co-operation of the churches can the work for boys progress very far. A program is needed to keep boys interested, therefore the central feature of this conference is the demonstration of programs of work for "teen age" boys, especially those programs which operate in churches.

The first session will be at 5 o'clock Friday in the First Baptist Church. The evening service at 7:30 will be addressed by President Henry L. Smith of Washington & Lee University; his address will be "American Boyhood and the New World." Rev. Charles W. Gilkey, pastor of the Hyde Park Baptist Church of Chicago, will also give an address at this session on "The Church's Human Foundation."

Addresses Saturday morning will be by Frank L. Brown, secretary of the World Sunday School Association, and E. M. Robinson, international committee of the Y. M. C. A. At 11 o'clock Saturday will be the demonstration conference in charge of leading men of the country in Scouting, Woodcraft League, American Standard Program and Camping. These demonstrations will operate in three periods until 4:45 p. m., with brief recesses between. It will be possible for the delegates to see each demonstration in operation.

Ernest Thompson Seton will speak Saturday evening and also Gen. William H. Chapin, chief supervising officer of the state military training commission.

Sunday morning and afternoon sessions will be addressed by men who are leaders in boys' work in the country.

The conference is under the direction of the Y. M. C. A. of N. Y. State Sunday School Association, Boy Scouts and Woodcraft League co-operating.

This conference will mean a federation of effort for the boy life of the churches. It is an opportunity for the churches to find out how to hold the boys and see definite work that is being done in other cities. Each church in the city has been approached to send a delegate on behalf of its boys. Some of the churches have caught the vision of the value of the conference to the boys and are paying the expenses of a man to attend. Every church in Kingston should be represented. Newburgh expects to have 15 delegates attend; Poughkeepsie, 15; Glens Falls, 20; Gloversville, 25; Troy, 20; Rochester, 100; Buffalo, 100; Brooklyn, 100. The number of delegates from all over the state will reach between 1,500 and 2,000.

The local delegation is being promoted by S. E. Eighmey, chairman, boys' work committee, Y. M. C. A.; F. R. Powley, president and S. P. Hines, boys' work secretary.

Speed in Making Grenades.

The core shop of an old British iron foundry is cited as a revelation in speed in turning out war work. Young girls are producing cores there for hand grenades at the rate of 180 an hour, the cores, the making of which takes 31 movements of the hand, being turned out in 16 seconds. The foundry itself is old and by no means modern, but by a system of standardization of the work and by encouraging employees to take an intelligent interest in their work, the output has been actually tripled. Every 1,000 feet of floor space in the foundry now produces 6.5 tons of light castings a week, working day shift only. It is the only foundry in that particular town working a 48-hour week. Besides the girls and women, who form 60 per cent of the employees, are allowed ten minutes for lunch and ten minutes' interval in the afternoon.

Dog Natural Pet of Soldier.

Dogs are a source of great comfort and satisfaction to the young fighting men from America who find in them a devotion and companionship many crave. They are amused by the antics of lively dogs but they are given much deeper pleasure by the absolute loyalty and complete unselfishness of their pets. If there is one place in the world where entire devotion to a comrade is more prized than it is anywhere else, that place is an army of brave and true soldiers.

ELLENVILLE.

Ellenville, Jan. 25.—The luncheon given by the Federated Women's Missionary Society of Ellenville and held in the parlors of the Reformed Church Thursday afternoon at 1:15 o'clock, was a very delightful and profitable affair. Covers had been laid for 100 and with but a few exceptions all places were filled. The tables were well arranged, all pointing to a small center table upon which rested a large bouquet of pink and white carnations, while this flower occupied several places about the large room, while the decorations of the tables were several small silk American flags in a group for the center piece. When all had taken their places, where they were to be seated, Mrs. R. T. Cookinham, president of the Reformed Missionary Society, invoked divine blessing and then all were seated and the serving of a delicious luncheon went forward. For a pleasant diversion, while seated, there were two songs sung by all in attendance, with Miss Julia Hornbeck at piano. Missionary hymns to the tunes of Long, Long Trail and Over There. At the conclusion of the luncheon all seated arose and sang very heartily "Our Answer to the Call," and then all were seated, facing the platform and Mrs. Appleby introduced Mrs. Grace G. Farmer of Montclair, N. J., the speaker of the hour. Mrs. Farmer arose to the situation and at once by her charming personality won the hearts of all. She had for the theme of her address on this occasion "Our New Peace Duty," and was up to the subject in minute detail, having four points she very clearly defined—and before ending her very able address, of which she was master, it was made clear to each one their peace duty. The address was heartily received by well merited applause. Singing followed by repeating the songs, "The Long, Long Trail" and "Over There," two stirring missionary hymns, closing the very profitable afternoon together with prayer by Mrs. E. A. Smiley, president of the M. E. Church Missionary Society, and a short social hour followed. During Mrs. Farmer's stay in town she was the guest of a college friend, Mrs. Bert H. Towilliger. Among those in attendance were Mrs. Townsend of Newburgh, who is president of the District M. E. Church Foreign Missionary Society, and Mrs. John Harper of New Windsor, formerly a resident of Ellenville and a member of the Reformed Church Missionary Society. Much credit is due the ladies of the two societies who made it possible for this missionary gathering, of which much good is sure to be the future results.

A memorial service will be held at St. John's Church on Sunday evening at 7:30 o'clock for Stanley Steadman, who was killed in action in France, last October. The pastor, Rev. Dr. Hobson, will have charge of the service.

Rev. H. G. Corlies preaches his last sermon at the Lutheran Church as his pastor Sunday evening. Subject "Independence." He is to take charge of the pastorate of the Lutheran Church at Liberty February 1. His departure is regretted by his congregation and friends in the village generally.

At the M. E. Church on Sunday Rev. F. F. Robinson of Pine Bush will occupy the pulpit morning and evening. At the Epworth League service at 6:30 Miss Ethel Lord will give the third lecture on church history.

Rev. and Mrs. George H. Smith have gone to spend some weeks with their son and family at Glen Ridge, D. C., while away from Ellenville.

S. M. Boyce and William Warren have been spending a day or two this week fishing for pickerel in the Morning Lake near Hurleyville. Have not learned of their luck.

Mrs. D. Lane and children have returned to their home in Brooklyn after spending a few weeks with their aunt, Mrs. Charles Storman.

Mrs. F. C. Dixon has gone to spend a few weeks with her daughter and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Grover C. Lasher, in Kingston.

Rev. Dr. E. E. Count sailed from New York overseas on the S. S. Ponchartraine on Thursday. Mrs. Count was in New York with his sister, Mrs. W. H. Emerson of Brooklyn, Mass., to see her husband before sailing.

Miss Mildred Eaton has gone to spend some weeks with friends in and about Philadelphia, Pa.

Mrs. Gerow Van Wyck of Kingston is visiting Mrs. S. M. Boyce.

Lawrence O'Neil has returned home after serving in U. S. service in France over seven months.

Mrs. Margaret Ward is spending some time with her sister, Mrs. S. P. Garrison, in Kingston.

Otto Johnson, Jr., in U. S. service, is spending a short furlough with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Otto Johnson, at the West End.

David Fernandez has graduated from Spencer's Business School in Kingston and has been spending the week with friends in Ellenville.

Pictures of Christ.
All pictures of Christ now in existence represent the artists' imaginative conceptions, based more or less on Biblical and other descriptions of his personal appearance. The works of Leonardo da Vinci and Raphael are the earliest acceptable ones.

Wheat and Flour.
No wheat thousands of years old has ever been known to germinate, many years to the contrary notwithstanding. Baking tests have also been made by the department of agriculture, showing a distinct inferiority of the Alaska wheat flour as a bread producer.

Help Wanted

Ready to pay you $25.00. Think of $25.00; not very much money, is it? Well then, think of fifty dollars; better, but not startling. But think of fifty dollars, twelve times a year for a lifetime; that amounts to something, doesn't it?

Will your wife have that much to live on after you are gone?

Answer—Not unless you leave $12,000.00 invested so that it will yield five per cent clear of taxes and administration charges every year.

Will she need all that money ($50.00 a month) to educate the children, pay the rent, the coal man, the grocer, the butcher, the clothier, the doctor, etc.?

Answer—(to be supplied by you.)

What is the best and most economical way for a man to provide fifty dollars a month (or more) for his widow and children as long as they live?

Answer—to be supplied by us as soon as you are ready to listen.
